The 2018 season: July 5–August 11

It's like one play FREE!

Merry Wives of Windsor

by William Shakespeare

The disreputable but lovable Sir John Falstaff is in rare form in Shakespeare's most farcical play. Back from the battlefields, Falstaff romantically pursues two wealthy wives to feed his considerable appetite for all things. Their sharp wit and charming manipulation are a hilarious mismatch for the braggart soldier.

Henry V

by William Shakespeare

Young Hal, of Shakespeare's Henry IV, Parts 1 and 2, now sits upon the long-sought throne of England. As King Henry, his sights are set on grander goals across the channel. The ambitious monarch goes "once more unto the breach" to conquer France by winning the Battle of Agincourt, and gain the heart of it's Princess.

Shakespeare in Love

by Tom Stoppard and Marc Norman, adapted by Lee Hall

The Oscar-winning film comes to life on the stage! Passion and poetry abound in bawdy and boisterous Elizabethan England, where young Will Shakespeare meets his muse for the world's greatest romance, Romeo and Juliet. The real-life Will is irresistibly quixotic in this wildly hilarious plot.

Ewing Manor, the most beautiful setting for Shakespeare anywhere!

—Staged inside the cool and comfortable Center for the Performing Arts Theatre at ISU
